JUNE

Hey! I know, it's been a long time!

The last time you've heard from me was in April, but I'm finally back!! Not back from vacation mind you...I've right here in the GTA with you through SARS, rain, closed DVP, War in Iraq, mad cow, construction on the 407 (what's up with that??? There are cracks in my sidewalk bigger than what you'll find on the 407!) and the cold, cold weather! Hopefully, things won't get any worse! ;)

On the business side, things have been getting absolutely nuts, so I had to take a break, re-group and get some assistance. To that point, I'd like to welcome Marsha Bennett and Adrian Blackwood - two new additions to the Volume 7 Sound-Solutions team who will be helping me out for the summer. They will assist with the Web site, production, marketing and promotion side of things, so look out for some more positive changes and additions coming soon.....

I've got to big-up and thank Sophia D. and all her friends for coming out and having such a good time last week Saturday for her birthday party! If you know who is on the fence about having a small private function to celebrate with some close friends and family, my advice is go for it, especially with all of the madness happening in the world right now!

Here are the next events to look forward to for the next few weeks. Be sure to visit www.djglenc.com to keep informed. The website links have been updated, so you may need to reset some of your bookmarks. Any questions, you can reach me at the info below. As always, thank again for the luv and support and I'll see you again soon! Shoot me a quick e-mail to say hi when you get a chance!
